

I oppose lifting the ban on in flight cellular phone use. It is bad enough to have to endure the conversations of others on trains & buses, in stores, in banks, in restrooms, in parks and on sidewalks without having them encroach one of the few places left where one can get away from them - airplanes. Leave things the way they are so folks who chose to can read or take a nap.